PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The Association's activities over the past year have focussed largely on problems raised by possible changes at SSHRCC and by the change in government in Ottawa. While your Association has also launched new initiatives--thanks to the hard work of many of our members--we have had to make numerous expressions of concern, opposition, and support for measures others are contemplating, measures that will affect all political scientists in Canada.

The change implied in the victory of the PC government has led to a number of concerns. The most important is the level of SSHRCC funding over the next few years. Despite PC electoral commitments to increase the funding for R & D, including the social sciences, the current emphasis on budget restraint does not leave much room for optimism. The SSHRCC has prepared a five-year programme which has been submitted to the government. While all of us may not agree entirely with the priorities of the Council, in general we share its concern about the long-run decline in research funding. One of our primary tasks during the year has been to try to generate support for the SSHRCC proposal. In tandem with the vigorous efforts of the Social Science Federation your Association has written and will continue to write letters to those key people in Ottawa who will be making the critical decisions on levels of funding for the SSHRCC. Last year's SSFC-led lobbying effort on behalf of social scientists paid off with increasing commitments from the Liberals. We hope to be even more successful this time around.

A second area of concern has been the research grants policies of the SSHRCC. In October 1983, your Board approved the Chandler-McRoberts report; this study, which outlines the Association's priorities for research funding, has been forwarded to the Council. The report is being revised in light of some new developments, particularly the Council's apparent concern with the principle of peer review and the methods of research grant appraisal. The Board of Directors at its November 1984 meetings endorsed a statement strongly supporting the continued application of peer review in Council decision-making. That statement was initially drafted by David Elkins (UBC) and you will have read it in your March 31 "Bulletin."

In December 1984, we received an invitation from the SSHRCC-organized Crocker Committee (Special Committee on Research Grants) to comment on a variety of issues relating to research funding. Unfortunately, the Association was given only a few weeks to reply to complicated questions about SSHRCC principles and practices. Since the Board of Directors could not meet, we submitted to the Committee our previously-stated positions on research priorities and peer review.

Originally, the Crocker Committee hoped to make its recommendations to the Council by May. It appears now that this deadline cannot be met. Hence, we will have an opportunity during our deliberations at the Learned's to discuss many of the issues raised in the Crocker Committee's terms of reference. We will have a revised version of the Chandler-McRoberts report, including elaboration of previous statements on peer review, research priorities, and the like. It appears, then, that we as an Association will be able to take a strong stand on issues that will affect us as researchers. Our timing may not be so unfortunate after all.

In discussing problems arising from the new government and from the internal reviews of the SSHRCC, I should emphasize the tremendous help we are receiving from the Social Science Federation. This organization has taken the lead in responding to critical new circumstances and, in general, has developed thoughtful positions on a variety of issues. Our profession has been well-served by the revitalized SSFC; and where we could not, because of timing problems, always act (the President cannot pass off his opinions on some key issues as representative of the entire Association!), the Federation has promptly developed persuasive positions.

THE MEMBERSHIP QUESTION

While the long-range funding prospects of the Association remain in the hands of a new government, we cannot sit back and wait for government decisions. As administrative support from the SSHRCC appears to be increasingly determined by numbers rather than by the range and excellence of programmes sponsored and organized by scholarly associations, our long-term health will depend ultimately upon the size of our membership. Here we face a matter of grave concern. Over the past year, we have lost some 100 members, leaving a total of around 1200. This figure includes membership in the Société--which, incidentally, has actually increased its own numbers. While Joan has done a great job in keeping costs to a minimum, and while we have a slight surplus this year, we cannot continue losing members. Martha Fletcher's committee on membership will produce some ideas to recoup our losses--and to expand our clientele--but this is surely an area where each member of the Association can make an important contribution by encouraging colleagues who are not presently members, graduate students, and other persons interested to join.

Compared to most scholarly groups, we provide a range of activities and services which benefit everyone from graduate students to emeriti. Travel funds for the Learned's, International Workshops, the new Directory of Canadian Political Scientists, the Essex programme, PIP, OLIP, our Journal and "The Bulletin", numerous interventions to the SSHRCC and government on your behalf--all of these and many more come from the annual membership fee. I know of no other academic association that does so much for so little. This part of the report must necessarily be a plea. I hope you will respond.

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

The new anglophone editorial team has completed its first year. Bob Boardman and Herman Bakvis (Dalhousie) and Grace Skogstad (St. Francis-Xavier) have demonstrated that the transition from the prairies was smooth, and that they have maintained the traditional high standards of the publication. Grace has been in Ottawa on a sabbatical year. Working out of the CPSA offices, she has offered encouragement and a source of wise counsel to the day-to-day functioning of the Secretariat. The staff has very much enjoyed having her there!

Nos remerciements aussi à Jean Crête (Laval), co-directeur, et à Graciela Ducantzenzeiler (Montréal), secrétaire à la rédaction et responsable des recensions. Bienvenue à François-Pierre Gingras (Ottawa) et Lucille Beaudry (UOAM) les nouveaux rédacteurs francophones. Il me plaît beaucoup que la première "orientation de la science politique" en français a été publiée dans le Rcsp numéro de décembre 1984. To John McMenemy, CJPS Managing Editor, our continued thanks. Our Association benefits in untold ways from John's penchant for punishment, and from his infinite patience. Few have served the CPSA so long and so well.

"THE BULLETIN"

Allan Tupper has graciously agreed to begin a second term. "The Bulletin", which has gone through many transformations, is an essential instrument for communicating among ourselves. Allan has regularized its appearance and format and has established a solid network of departmental representatives with the consequence that our members can feel confident they are up to date on the important issues before the Association, on new opportunities and, of course, on a little gossip.

LA SOCIÉTÉ QUÉBÉCOISE DE SCIENCE POLITIQUE

The brevity of the comment indicates the truth to the adage that no news is good news. Thanks to the negotiations that led to the Agreement/Accord with la Société, signed in January 1984, our relations have entered a new era of cordiality, cooperation, and collaboration.

PROGRAMME COMMITTEE

One of my first tasks as President-elect was to select someone to chair the 1985 Programme Committee. I immediately turned to André Bernard (UQAM) who in previous years had served the Association so diligently. Whatever my judgement on other matters, this one was correct. André and his committee have worked hard to organize this year's meetings. Having attended André's first organizing session in Guelph last year, I was impressed by his early efforts to collect the committee and by his emphasis on rigorous procedures--including deadlines. We are all very grateful to André and his associates for organizing what I hope will be the biggest and the best. I should add, also, that thanks to the collaboration between André, Fred Fletcher (York) and Michael Atkinson (McMaster)--all former Chairs of the programme committee--we will soon have a handbook for future chairpersons. This should relieve some of the pressures for this important position, and provide new incumbents with helpful hints from their predecessors.

STATE OF THE ART SEMINAR

This year's meeting of department heads was graciously hosted by Bishop's University. Andrew F. Johnson did an excellent job in organizing our sessions and providing hospitality. The meetings were, as usual, very useful. We had an opportunity to go over the new Qualman (Laval) Report which continues the work of providing statistics on political science enrolments across Canada. These figures give a good profile of our teaching problems and prospects, and can be used to good purpose by, for example, department heads wishing to extract more funds from recalcitrant deans! The figures certainly belie the often-heard assertion that undergraduates are flocking to the professional faculties. The Qualman report will (as was its predecessor) continue to be updated each year, and modifications are being worked out to make it an even more important source of data about our undergraduate activities. We are all indebted to Harry and the persons assisting him at Laval for this most important project.

The meetings this year welcomed several interesting guests: Ted Skaperdas from Marionopolis College, to speak to the chairpersons about the teaching of political science at the community college level; Professor William Culver (SUNY), to describe the chairpersons group at the APSA; and Professor Pierre Patenaude from the Faculté de droit at l'université de Sherbrooke, to talk about the teaching of political science in institutions like his own where it does not have a separate faculty status.

We also discussed matters relating to financial restraints at universities (focusing on Henry Jacek's (McMaster) creative accounting techniques!); the role of the chairperson; new positions available in the field, and so on. Although we were unable to obtain an SSHRC grant for our meeting, the universities and departments provided the funds to permit more than 30 chairpersons to attend.

INTERNSHIPS PROGRAMMES

As your President, I had the pleasure of attending the annual dinner for the Parliamentary Internships programme at the House of Commons restaurant. A short address to 200 tycoons and politicians was a daunting experience, but in my discussion with MPs and interns, I was able to reinforce my previous impression of how very important this programme is, not only for the students, but for our profession as a whole. The comments I heard were very enthusiastic. Donors and recipients alike acknowledged readily the benefits of the PIP. The internships provide not only excellent training and education, but also open doors for subsequent careers. I was very pleased to meet former students of mine, now graduates of PIP, holding important and impressive positions in a variety of fields. The accolades I heard for PIP Director Bob Jackson (Carleton), were numerous. He has done an outstanding job with the programme and I am pleased to express our gratitude publicly. Michael Atkinson (McMaster) will be the CPSA representative, other than the Programme Director, to the Selection Committee. You will note that a new pattern has evolved: the Board and the Programme have agreed to the principle of regional rotation of this function. We are grateful to Agar Adamson for having filled it for 84/85 and to Barry Cooper (Calgary) for 83/84.

What Bob has done at the Federal level is repeated in the other such programme we sponsor: The Ontario Legislature Internships Programme. Fred Fletcher (York) has agreed to serve a second three-year term as Director. The Board's request that he stay on was an easy decision to arrive at: Fred has done an excellent job and has had particular success this year in raising funds in the private sector, in expanding the number of interns, and in providing them with a most enriching experience. This vitality of the two internships programmes is rewarding to all of us: as departments face increasingly difficult financial restraints, as tuition fees increase, and as prospects of academic employment are anything but bright, at least in this area our Directors have been able to move ahead.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROCEDURES

All associations occasionally have to adjust their procedures to changing conditions and new challenges. Your Board of Directors at its November 1984 meeting voted to tidy up our rather cumbersome practices with regard to major appointments. We found that some people had three year terms, some four, some one, and some other variations. The question of reappointments was also irregular. The Board decided that in future all major appointments will be for a three-year term, with an extension of a further three years if agreeable to both parties. After six years, the Executive will establish or act as a review committee to assess the needs of the position and to make a new appointment. Incumbents will not be disqualified from reapplying.

A Committee (Chair: Ken Carty, UBC; Jean-Pierre Gaboury, Ottawa; and Don Smiley, York) is also considering some changes to our Constitution. Particularly, it is working on the appointments procedures described there, to bring them into line with practice but it has been asked to take a hard look at the whole document with an eye, for example, to revising text and in general "cleaning up" what the years have put out of order.

For the past several years, the CPSA has paid an independent scrutineer to count the election ballots for annual elections. This method has proved to be not only a bit costly, but unsatisfactory in some other ways. The Constitutional Committee will recommend on how to proceed but your Executive has, in the meantime, drafted one of our past presidents to carry out this task. In this way we have forced Don Smiley into his first foray into electoral studies and we can now add "political behaviourist" to Don's c.v.!

OBSERVATIONS AND GRATITUDES

It may take some time for an incoming president to learn all the intricacies of an association such as ours. But two things become immediately apparent: the CPSA is involved in an incredibly broad variety of activities; and it cannot operate without the active participation and assistance of members of our profession. I have been very pleased that everytime I have asked someone to take on a task, the response invariably has been positive and enthusiastic. Our membership of over 1000 owes an immense debt of gratitude to the people who man our committees, who take on little and great chores, who lobby on our behalf and, in some cases, who provide organizational and intellectual leadership for all the social sciences. Ed Black (Queen's) and our past president, Caroline Andrew (Ottawa), continue to serve us in many ways. I am particularly grateful to Caroline who was able to step in for me at two meetings of the Social Science Federation. She has been an unusually active past president.

Annually we acknowledge our thanks to Joan Pond. This is a particular pleasure; our association has benefited immensely from Joan's initiative, expertise, tact, and remarkable competence. In its wisdom, your Board of Directors, not content with mere expressions of gratitude, has voted at the IPSA's suggestion, to help fund Joan's trip to their meetings in Paris this July. We are also grateful to Shelley Berezin, who is now on maternity leave, and to Rachel Desjardins, both of whom help run--and in good humour--what is an excellent headquarters. To the members of the constitutional, liaison, nominating, programme, and PIP selection committees, my sincere thanks for your work and help during the past year.

Finally, a word of special thanks to outgoing Past President, Caroline Andrew, whose three years on the Executive have been ones of extraordinary service to the Association.

Our Association is unique among the learned societies. While we have problems on the horizon, I am certain that with the kind of assistance and counsel available to help in running the organization, we will continue to provide a unique range of services and programmes for our members and for students. My best wishes go, finally, to Fred Engelmann, who will soon get to savour the secrets and intricacies of the CPSA. It has been an informative, fun and informative year. My thanks to all of those already mentioned, and to many others who have helped out.

President

ANNUAL REPORTS*

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE INTERNSHIP PROGRAMME

STAGES PARLEMENTAIRES A L'ASSEMBLY LEGISLATIVE DE L'ONTARIO

1. For 1985-86, Bell Canada and ManuLife will continue as corporate sponsors of the Programme. Each provides an annual donation of $5,000, used to fund seminars and exchange visits. Xerox of Canada joined our group of corporate sponsors for 1984-85 with a donation of $1,000. In 1984-85, the Programme also received a donation of $1,000 from the Jackman Foundation and a personal donation from Mr. Bart Watt, President of the Churchill Society. The Institute for Political Involvement has been kind enough to assist us in our fund-raising and a number of organizations are currently considering our requests. The Programme will continue in 1985-86 to try to broaden its base of corporate support in order to increase the number of interns from eight to ten.
2. The Programme continues to receive its primary funding from the Ontario Legislative Assembly. Because of the May 2 election, the Board of Internal Economy has not at this writing considered our budget for 1985-86. However, we have been authorized by the Director of Administration to proceed with the appointment of interns for 1985-86. The budget request involves a modest increase to cover rising costs in some answers and a small expense account for interns. The stipend is to remain at $11,000 ($1100 per month for the period September 1 to June 30) for eight interns. The Assembly grant covers the stipends and related administrative costs for the interns, plus funds for an annual constituency visit. The external funding pays for exchange visits and seminars.
3. The administration of the Programme changed in 1984, with the departure of Dr. Graham White from the Clerk's Office of the Assembly to the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto. A former intern, he had been Legislative Co-ordinator since 1982. His contribution over the past three years has been great and I was fortunate to persuade him to assist me with the academic side of the Programme--for a modest stipend--in 1984-85. Barbara Cameron of York University continued to assist most ably with the fund-raising. At the Legislature, the Co-ordinators were Douglas Arnott of the Clerk's Office (a former intern), John Eichmanis, a political scientist employed by the Legislative Research Service, and Ellen Schoenberg, Personnel Officer of the Assembly.
4. In 1984-85, the Ontario interns have visited Parliament, the Quebec National Assembly and the California State Legislature. The annual visit to the Legislatures of Alberta and B.C. is scheduled for May. Each of these visits has involved three intensive days of seminars with senior public officials, journalists, academics, and others with specialized knowledge of the legislature and its political environment. The Ontario interns have also hosted the Parliamentary interns at Queen's Park and are expecting visits from the Quebec and B.C. groups. In addition, the 1984-85 interns have continued the active programme of seminars begun in 1983-84, seeing a wide range of public officials and interest group representatives, as well as Assembly officials and politicians. By June 30, they will have had more than 50 such seminars, not to mention the seminars on the exchange visits. The interns were also fortunate to be able to attend the Progressive Conservative leadership convention and to participate in the 1985 election campaign. Nevertheless, their major activity has remained the day-to-day work for the MPPs, most of whom make an active effort to include their interns in a full range of legislative activities.

5. The experiment of permitting interns to work for Parliamentary Assistants, announced in the annual report for 1983, has been made permanent. The work of the interns has remained focussed on the Legislature and government backbenchers have continued to compete successfully for interns.

6. The assignments for 1984-85 were:

Beth Arnott, University of Windsor (Public Administration)
David Rotenberg (PC--Wilson Heights)
Murray Elston (LIB--Huron Bruce)

David Docherty, Wilfrid Laurier (Political Science)

Phil Gillies (PC--Brantford)
Richard Johnston (NDP--Scarborough West)

Ronald Hoffman, University of Manitoba (Political Science)
Jim Bradley (LIB--St. Catherines)
Bill Barlow (PC--Cambridge)

Joydeep Mukherji, University of Toronto (Economics)

Brian Charlton (NDP--Hamilton Mountain)

Michael Yeo, York; M.A., McMaster (Philosophy)
Odoardo Di Santo (NDP--Downsview)
Bob MacQuarrie (PC--Carleton East)*

7. The selection committee for 1984-85 consisted of the Academic Director, Douglas Arnott and John Eichmanis from the Legislature, a serving intern (Beth Arnott) and two CPSA representatives (Professors Graham White, University of Toronto, and Richard Price, University of Windsor). More than 160 completed applications were received (an increase of 60 over 1984), representing a wide range of institutions in Ontario and across the country. The quality of applications was very high and the committee found the selection process even more difficult than usual.

8. The interns for 1985-86 will be:

Marya Duckworth, Toronto, Ont., LL.B., Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, 1984

Patrick Fafard, Edmonton, Alberta, B.A. (Honours), Political Science, University of Alberta, 1982; M.A., Political Science, York University, 1985

Ruth Flynn-Fletcher, Sarnia, Ont., B.A. (Honours), Political Science, 1983; M.A., Political Science, University of Western Ontario

Stephen Glass, Sudbury, Ont., B.A. (Honours), Political Science, Laurentian University, 1985

Mary Kirley, Toronto, Ont., B.A. (Honours), Public Administration, University of Windsor, 1985

David McLennan, London, Ont., B.A. (Honours), History, 1983; LL.B. in progress, University of Western Ontario

Cheryl Parry, Smith Falls, Ont., B.A. (Honours), Political Science, Queen's University, 1983; M.P.M., University of Alberta, 1985

Monika Turner, Toronto, Ont., B.A. (Honours), Anthropology, 1981; M.A., Anthropology, McMaster, 1985

10. In 1983-84, the Programme continued to benefit from the enthusiastic support of the MPPs and officials of the Assembly. Among those deserving special thanks are the Hon. John Turner, Speaker of the Ontario Legislative Assembly, Mr. Roderick Lewis, Q.C., Clerk of the House, and Mr. Robert Fleming, the Administrator of the Assembly. The Programme also received noteworthy assistance from the Clerk's Office at the Assembly and from York University, which donated office space and other services. The support from ManuLife, Bell Canada, and Xerox Canada and the Jackman Foundation was invaluable and we are grateful to the Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association for assisting us with a reception for the PIP interns. I would like to express my personal gratitude to Graham White, Barbara Cameron and Phyllis Feldman, the Programme secretary, Douglas Arnott, John Eichmanis, Ellen Schoenberger for their fine work, as well as to Joan Pond and the CPSA staff for their support. The interns themselves also deserve special mention for their organizational and fund-raising efforts.

FRED FLETCHER
Academic Director

* Mr. MacQuarrie was defeated in the May 2 election; a new assignment is pending.

PARLIAMENTARY INTERNSHIP PROGRAMME - ANNUAL REPORT 1984-85

The Programme continued to receive its primary funding from the Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada. While the poor health of the economy has resulted in the loss of a large number of sponsors, others have been secured to ensure the programme's funding for at least 1985-86.

As in previous years, the Parliamentary Interns visited the Ontario Legislature, the Quebec National Assembly, the U.S. Congress and will be visiting the British and German Parliaments during June. The Parliamentary Interns have hosted visits by the Ontario, Quebec and Alberta Interns and the U.S. Congressional Fellows.

Following is a list of Interns and their allocations for the 1984-85 programme:

As in 1983-84, the British High Commission made available educational scholarships to Interns. Past and present Interns were eligible for these awards. These scholarships allow Interns to spend a maximum of 2 years full-time study at a British University or similar institution. Selection of the recipients of the scholarships were made by a joint committee consisting of members of the PIP Policy Committee and representatives of the British High Commission.

The following Interns were awarded scholarships:

France Benoit
Heather Conway
Maureen Mancuso

SOCIAL SCIENCE FEDERATION OF CANADA

The Social Science Federation of Canada has been increasingly concentrating its energies on lobbying. In the fall of 1984, it was one of several groups that formed the "Ottawa Consortium" which organized a lobby among the newly elected Conservative MPs in order to familiarize them with the issues of research and development, the financing of post-secondary education and the funding of the research councils. This effort has been continued by the Federation through meetings with individual MPs and regional caucus groups. These meetings are very important if we want to convince the government that spending on research and development, the funding of the granting councils and specifically the budget of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council must be increased. This spring the Federation is once again engaged in a lobbying process, related to the federal budget process, and aimed at convincing the federal government to increase the SSHRCC budget.

Ce genre de travail prend beaucoup de temps et d'énergie mais il est extrêmement important pour nous. Sans effort de lobbying, il est beaucoup plus probable que le budget du conseil de recherches en sciences humaines du Canada sera coupé. D'autres groupes dans la société--les facultés de médecine par exemple--ont monté des campagnes de lobbying très efficaces et le gouvernement a été influencé par ces campagnes. Depuis quelques années l'Association canadienne de science politique a encouragé la Fédération d'accroître ses efforts dans le domaine du lobbying et je crois que les activités de cette année correspondent bien à nos souhaits.

This concentration of the Federation's activities in the area of lobbying corresponds to what several of its members, including the CPSA, have urged recently. It also corresponds with financial necessity as the Federation's own budget has been reduced. Suggestions for economy measures and for proposals to restructure the SSFC so as to run a more efficient and effective operation have been widely discussed this year and these two will lead, I believe, to greater concentration on lobbying. The work of the Federation has been very useful this year. In a period when Ottawa seems increasingly concerned with cutting its expenditures we must make our case forcefully for social science research.
