LE MOT DU DIRECTEUR / FROM THE EDITOR

In this first issue of 1991, we continue with our regular columns. David Leyton-Brown has kindly accepted to be responsible for the column on the State of the Discipline which deals, in this issue, with International Relations' studies in Canada. Notre collègue Lucille Beaudry a, pour sa part, gracieusement accepté de tracer pour nous les contours du programme d'études supérieures au département de science politique de l'Université du Québec à Montréal. Les professeurs David Charters du département d'histoire et Miron Rezun du département de science politique de l'Université du Nouveau-Brunswick établissent, quant à eux, un bilan très complet des activités du Center for Conflict Studies de Fredericton. Our column on the Practice of Political Science has been written by Professor Agar Adamson of Acadia who reflects on the situation of research and teaching in a small university. Finally, Professor Louis Balthazar of Laval has kindly accepted to share with us his vision of the Canadian community he foresees at the end of the century.

I want to express to all of them my most sincere appreciation.

This issue of the Bulletin also constitutes a very special occasion. If memory serves me well, it is the first time in the history of the Bulletin that we have the pleasure to benefit from a collaboration from outside Canada. Our colleague, Professor Ileana Cid Capetillo of UNAM, has very kindly accepted to present to us an overview of the situation of study and research in International Relations in Mexico. I want to express to her my most sincere appreciation. It is my hope that we will be able to continue this type of collaboration in future issues of the Bulletin.

Finally, let me thank again Joan Pond and Peter Russell for their support. Je remercie également Marie-Pierre Ashby ainsi que Erick Duchesne et Claude Goulet qui m'ont aidé à préparer ce numéro du Bulletin.
