Editor's Corner

As you are aware, my term as editor of the Bulletin ends this month. It was an enriching experience in more ways than one. I am certain that my successor will be able to count on the continued co-operation of the membership. I would like to thank those with whom I have worked closely during the past three years: Joan Pond, Rachel Desjardins, Shelly Beresin and Michelle Lacelle. The commentaries and suggestions of Jean-Pierre Gaboury were always judicious and I would like to take this opportunity to thank him for his contribution to the Bulletin. Finally, I would also like to thank Bill Jory, Ted Moroz, Brian Pagan and Daniel Robinson for their help as production assistants on the Bulletin.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT
RAPPORT DU PRÉSIDENT

If the honour of serving as President of the Association is proportional to the workload, I feel extremely honoured by this year. My term has been full, challenging, and enriching for me; and I believe that it marks a historic period in the life of the Association. The CPSA Trust Fund is now fully established, and I witnessed the celebration of the centenary of Political Science in Canada.

Although we conceived the Trust during John Courtney's term as President, the gestation was long and the labour protracted. The Trust Agreement was finally written, and the legal formalities completed in early 1989. We have begun the process of fund-raising, and our prospects in the long run are bright. I want the record to show that this major undertaking is the work of many members. Special thanks are due to Tom Flanagan, Chair of the Trustee, and to his fellow Trustees: Réjean Landry, Denis Stairs, and Carolyn Tuchka. The President sits as a Trustee ex officio, and so both John Courtney and I have had the pleasure of working with this team. The Advisory Board of the Trust will play an increasingly important role as fund-raising accelerates. We are lucky to have the services of the following members of the Advisory Board: Caroline Andrew, André Blais, Stephen Clarkson, John Courtney, Fred Engelmann, Fred Fletcher, Jean Laponce, Vincent Lemieux, John Melgel, David Milne, Maurice Pinard, Don Box, Paul Thomas, Neil Swainson, and Steve Wolinetz.

I have had the opportunity to represent the Association on many occasions. The most memorable was in Toronto on November 11, 1988, when Marshall Chandler organized a conference to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the appointment of the first Professor of Political Economy in Canada, W.J. Ashley, who took up his position in 1888 at the University of Toronto. The conference was attended by several hundred faculty, graduate students, alumni, and friends of the Department.

Other opportunities to increase my number of airline bonus points have included: a meeting of the SSFC, meetings with the Parliamentary Interns, the PIP dinner in Ottawa, the OLIP dinner in Toronto, and the meeting of Heads of Departments of Political Science. I want to thank the SSFC, the Director of PIP, the Director of OLIP, and Richard Vernon and his colleagues at the University of Western Ontario for making all these trips as pleasant and rewarding as possible.

This year has also marked several important appointments. The Board of Directors approved the reappointment of Conrad Winn as Director of PIP for a second three-year term; we hope he will continue to guide the Program and secure its funding with the same enthusiasm and success he has shown up to now. Graham White began his term as Director of OLIP in 1986, and it has been a pleasure to work with him.

The most significant change in the administration of the Association has been the departure of our long-serving Secretary-Treasurer. Many previous Presidents know how important Jean-Pierre Gaboury has been in keeping the Association on an even keel, but none of us can have more praise than I have for him. He was not only a helpful administrator but a gracious friend. Fortunately we have been able to replace him with someone who will carry on this tradition of service. Simon McInnes is not only an academic by training but a successful federal public servant. I believe that his election by acclamation to the post of Secretary-Treasurer will have the additional benefit of furthering recent efforts to expand our membership by encouraging non-university-based political scientists to join and be active in the Association. I wish Simon good luck, and I wish Jean-Pierre the very best in his new role as a member of the Canada Immigration Board.

My choice of André Blais to be Program Chair for the Learned Societies this year has been vindicated by the meetings in which my term ended. We owe him thanks for the care with which he has organized these meetings and for several innovations. These include the theme sessions commemorating the 200th anniversary of the French Declaration of Rights, the greater participation by foreign scholars, and the experimental organization of interview facilities for our graduate students seeking employment.

The protocol which links our Association with La Société québécoise de science politique is an example of sovereignty-association. The protocol came up for review this year, as it does periodically. I want to thank Fred Fletcher, Jean-Pierre Gaboury, and Peter Meekison for serving on the review committee. I also want to thank the members of the Association who serve on the Liaison Committee, which handles the regular and ongoing relations with La Société; the Secretary-Treasurer, Audrey Doerr and Hugh Thorburn.

The role of President is made more manageable by being able to call upon the past-President and the President-elect for advice and specific tasks. I am fortunate to have had John Courtney and André-J. Bélanger as willing collaborators. They have made my life easier by allowing me to make their lives a bit more difficult.

During this past year, the National Office has moved into the electronic age, and we have purchased personal computers for the staff and are in process of putting records into computer format. We have also been making much greater use of electronic mail, a trend which I feel will continue and which will result in many fewer costs and frustrations for the staff and members.

Thanks are due to David Smith for producing an up-dated Directory. Members will receive copies in the near future and will find them indispensable. The Directory signals another achievement of the electronic office. It is stored on a computer and can be revised and expanded regularly. It contains, among other information, electronic addresses for a significant proportion of the membership.

An organization with well over a thousand members, with far-flung activities, and a budget of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars is not easy to run. To do so with volunteers and a part-time national office is remarkable. It could not be done half so well without a staff in Ottawa who smile while they work. Joan Pond, Rachel Desjardins, Michelle Lalonde, Alwyne Greenhalgh, and the secretaries of PIP and CLIP have proved their value beyond what we pay them. As every President for 13 years has learned, the key to the success of the national office has been Joan Pond. I am not only glad to have had her help and advice, but I thank my lucky stars that she did not retire before my term of office. Without her, the Association would continue, but running it would be less fun.

There are so few public occasions for me to extol the virtues of my Administrative Assistant, Dory Urbano, that I must record my debt to her as well. She is in the same league as Joan, and only she knows what this year has cost her.

Besides the establishment of the Trust, the aspect of this year which gives me the most satisfaction is leaving in place an excellent group to carry forward the Association’s business. I have referred to most of them already, but I must also mention the members of the Board of Directors. Fractious as only academics can be, they nevertheless invariably ended discussions with good will and sensible decisions. I am also proud that half of the members of the Board are women, pulling this Association well ahead of the House of Commons in this respect as in many others.

I leave the Presidency exhausted but with gratitude for an experience I will never forget. As Casey Stengel said about one of the Yankees’ many World Series victories, “I could never have done it without the players.”

David J. Elkis
President 1988-89
1. This is a journal of very high quality. It is the flagship journal of political science in Canada. It is comparable to the most outstanding journals in the field in the USA and Great Britain. The committee noted with particular interest and commendation the citations analysis made by Professor Courney et al., which constitutes a measure of the quality of the journal as well as the degree of its international presence.

2. The journal provides a very significant service to Canadian scholars as evidenced by the high proportion of contributions from Canadians. It has succeeded in attracting contributions from both established and junior academics.

3. The journal has a very good reach in Canada and abroad. The fact that about 40% of its subscriptions are foreign is an indication of the quality of the journal and of its good management.

4. The proportion of women on the editorial board is higher than the proportion of women in the field.

We are proud of this positive appraisal. It is a tribute to the high standards maintained over the years by our predecessors on the Editorial and Advisory Board and especially to the excellent work of John McMenemy and Joan Pond in managing the affairs of the Journal.

Annual report of the Parliamentary Internship Program to the Annual General Meeting of the Canadian Political Science Association, June, 1989

Introduction

The nature of the program did not change markedly this year. Much the same emphasis was placed on involving scholars from outside Ottawa and on persuading corporate sponsors to place the program on a more solid financial footing. Some initiatives are meeting with some success.

Academic participation

After two years which were superb for the program, Trent University Professor of Political Science Magnus Gunther was succeeded as the "non-Ottawa academic" in the program by Professor Guy Lachapelle of Concordia University. Professor Lachapelle has been supervising research essays and participating in other academic ways.

Other significant participants were:

- Laval's Professor Réjean Pellegrin, who participated in the September orientation along with a range of senior government officials and experts.
- Simon Fraser's Professor Maureen Covell, who played an active role in selection of interns for 1989-90 and who will be leading the group in a study visit to Bonn in late June, a task performed by York University's Professor Fred Fletcher last year.
- University of Ottawa Professor François Houle, who sat once again on the selection committee and who led the interns in a study visit to London last year.
- University of Ottawa's Vice-Dean Caroline Andrew, who continues to play a vital role as chair of the PIP Policy Committee and participated in the September orientation.
- Former Secretary-treasurer Jean-Pierre Gaboury, who presented his excellent lecture on participant observation once again during the September orientation.

Sources of PIP income, 1973-74

- Light, Insur. cos. 82%
- Granting council 18%
Financial solidification

On becoming director almost three years ago, I proposed three goals to the CPSA Board—increased resources, a diversity of supply, and long-term commitments. The first two goals have been achieved with the third as an objective to be sought in the months and years ahead.

The two accompanying graphs provided evidence of both the changed overall financial situation as well as the diversity in supply. The program continues to treat its many sponsors with affection and respect, but its future is more sturdy to the extent that it does not depend on a small number of sponsors making year to year commitment, sometimes announcing these commitments after candidates have already been chosen.

Our sponsors have been very obliging and understanding without exception. Our oldest sponsor, the Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association, continues to play a vital role. CLHIA President Gerry Devlin, our longtime supporter, is stepping down after a decade in the post. The Insurance Bureau of Canada came to our rescue two years ago and remains a major source of undemanding generosity.

Two individuals deserve special mention—ECL partner Richard Bertrand, who steps down after two key years as the first chair of our Sponsors’ Committee, and his successor, Jean Dubé, Assistant Vice-President, Governmental Affairs at Bell Canada, who plays an inspirational role on our behalf.

Alumni participation

We will shortly have had 20 years of interns. The program was initiated in 1969 with Donner support announced in May of that year. Approval by the Speaker of the House of Commons and the House leaders occurred in late October. The first group of interns was selected in March, 1970 for the ten month period beginning September, 1970.

Gender distribution of interns

To help mark the 20th anniversary, we are seeking to heighten the involvement of alumni in some aspects of the life of the program, particularly the annual dinner. Jeff Simpson remains chair of the alumni group. Former PQ Premier Hon. Pierre-Marc Johnson was our keynote speaker this year, succeeding Bill Davis and Peter Lougheed in previous years.

The Selection Committee consisting of CFSA, alumni, and House of Commons representatives does not practice affirmative action policies. Nonetheless, it is interesting to note a change over the years in the gender of successful applicants (see graph). It is also noteworthy that female candidates experience about a 3-5 times greater probability of being chosen than male; the program receives fewer applications from women than from men.

An open invitation

Sabbaticants from outside Ottawa who plan to be in Ottawa have an open invitation to participate in the program in some fashion. Just send a note or phone us at [613] 788-2650.

Conrad Winn
Director and
Professor of Political Science,
Carleton University,
host of the program office.
The programme continues to enjoy the active support of the Members and staff of the Ontario Legislature. MPPs remain eager to have interns assigned to them, and are very positive about the work the interns perform for them.

The most tangible support provided the programme by the Assembly is funding; as in the past, the programme receives its principal funding from the Legislature. At its meeting in February 1989, the Legislature’s Board of Internal Economy authorized a grant of $159,120 to the Association in support of the programme, an increase of four per cent over the previous year. The grant from the Assembly covers the stipends for eight interns and related administrative costs plus funds for constituency visits. External funding pays for exchange visits and seminars. Because we have done so well with corporate fund-raising over the past two years (due in no small measure to the efforts of the previous Director, Fred Fletcher, and of past interns), for 1989-90 we will be able to fund a ninth intern entirely from private donations. Our hope is that we will be able to maintain this practice in years to come.

For a variety of reasons, but most particularly a decision to direct their thinly-spread resources elsewhere, the Committee of 94 will not be extending its pilot intern project another year. In each of the past two years, the Committee sponsored one additional intern, a mature woman lacking some of the formal qualifications normally required of applicants.

The stipend for 1988-89 was $14,500. Although the stipend has risen appreciably in recent years, it may have to be re-evaluated. Applications were down somewhat this year, for the second straight year. There is numerous employment opportunities and Toronto’s supercharged housing costs are reducing the number of applications. The field of candidates attracted for the competition just completed was of first-rate quality; nonetheless, the trend is worrisome, and may require more substantial increases in the stipend.

Private sector grants for 1988-89 have been received or are committed from Bell Canada, Xerox, Molson, Imperial Oil, Suncor, Abitibi-Price, Bank of Montreal, Canada Packers, Carling O’Keefe, Consumers Gas, Coopers and Lybrand, Insurance Bureau of Canada, Manulife, Ontario Real Estate Association, Policy Concepts, Royal Insurance, Clarkson Gordon, Environics, Sandbury Building, Yorkwood Investments, Counsel Trust, Lang-Nichener. We have also received assistance of various kinds from several organizations, most notably the Churchill Society for the Advancement of Parliamentary Democracy, the Ontario Public Service Employees’ Union, S.A. Murray Consulting and the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

The 1988-89 interns have visited Parliament and the Quebec National Assembly. In May, the interns will be visiting the Nova Scotia House of Assembly, the Massachusetts Legislature; in June they will travel to Westminster. The trip to Britain will mark a first for the programme. Each visit involves several days of meetings with elected officials, senior bureaucrats, journalists, academics and others with specialized knowledge of the legislature and its political environment. The Ontario interns have hosted visits from the federal interns and the Alberta interns, and will play host to the British Columbia interns later in the year.

As in past years, the interns have organized an active programme of seminars, meeting with a wide range of public officials, interest group representatives, journalists as well as politicians and officials of the Assembly. The interns have also taken part in various party gatherings, union conventions and other events sponsored by various groups. These activities, however, are supplemental to the interns’ primary responsibility: their day-to-day work on behalf of the MPPs to whom they are assigned. Most of the interns, for whom interns work take a strong personal interest in involving their interns in a broad range of their activities; the current year is particularly notable for the substantial amount of time interns spent visiting their MPPs’ ridings with them.

Intern assignments for 1988-89 were:

Paul Davidson: Peter Adams (L; Peterborough); Richard Johnston (NDP; Scarborough West)

Laura Fargubarthor: Shelley Martel (NDP; Sudbury East); Charles Beer (L; York North)

Mark Langdon: Diane Poole (L: Eglinton); Bob Runciman (PC; Leeds-Grenville)

Ashley McCall: David Cooke (L: Kitchener) Floyd Laughren (NDP; Nickel Belt)

Chris Schnarr: Cam Jackson (PC; Burlington South); Marietta Roberts (L: Elgin)

The selection committee for 1989 consisted of myself; the two programme co-ordinators appointed by the Speaker, Douglas Arnott of the Clerk’s Office (who is a former intern), and Ellen Schoenberger, the Legislature’s Director of Human Resources; Laura Farguharson, an 1988-89 intern, and two CPSA representatives: Professors Fred Fletcher (who has taken on an elder statesman role as Director Emeritus) and Joan Boase of the University of Windsor. Eighty-seven completed applications were received from candidates across Ontario and the country. The quality of the applicants was very high, and the committee found the selection process particularly difficult. A statistical summary of the applicants is appended to this report.

The following have been offered and have accepted internships for 1989-90:

Shaun Cody - B.A. (political science), University of Alberta
Janice Duggan - B.A. (history), Wilfrid Laurier University; M.A. (history), University of Toronto
Marianne Goodwin - B.A. (political science), Queen’s University; M.A. (political science), McGill University
Christine Happel - B.A. (political science and english), University of Western Ontario; M.A. (political science), McMaster University
Deirdre Hilary - B.A. (political science), University of Toronto
Christopher Jones - B.A. (political science and environmental studies), University of Toronto
Jacqueline Lines - B.A. (politics and history), Royal Military College
Suzanne Schwenger - B.A. (French), University of Western Ontario; M.Ed, Ontario Institute for Studies in Education; M.S.W., University of Toronto
Catherine Steele - B.A. (political science and french), University of New Brunswick; M.A. (political science), Carleton University

In 1988-89, the Programme continued to benefit from enthusiastic support from the MPPs and the staff of the Legislature. Special thanks are due to the Hon. Hugh Edighoffer, MPP, Speaker of the Assembly; Mr. Claude DesRosiers, Clerk of the House; and Mr. Thomas Stelling, Sergeant-at-Arms. The Programme also received significant support from the Clerk’s Office and from Erindale College of the University of Toronto, which donated office space and other services.

My personal thanks go to Rose Antonio, the programme secretary; to Ida Campana, who filled in on short notice for Rose when she had to take maternity leave earlier than expected; Doug Arnott and Ellen Schoenberger; to Fred Fletcher; to Joan Boase; and to Joan Pond, Alwyn Greenhalgh, and the CPSA staff for their assistance. The interns themselves have taken on a large share of the organizational work and the fund-raising and deserve special mention in making 1988-89 a highly successful year for the programme.

MINUTES

PROCES-VERBAL

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING 60 REUNION GENERALE ANNUELLE

The Canadian Political Science Association/
Association canadienne de science politique

The University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario

June 10, 1988

1. President’s Welcome
   President John C. Courtney extended greetings to all in attendance at the Windsor meetings and welcomed everyone to The Association’s sixtieth Annual General Meeting.

2. Approval of the Agenda
   The proposed agenda was now before the meeting for ratification. Professor Trent had had to ask that the IPSA item be heard as early as possible. Professor Courtney therefore suggested that item 14 be brought forward so that Professor Trent’s could appear immediately after item 4.

   MOTION CARRIED
   J. Peter Meekison / David M. Cameron
   That the agenda, as amended, be approved.

3. Approval of the Minutes of 1988
   MOTION CARRIED
   Edwin R. Black / Hugh G. Thorburn
   That the Minutes of the 1987 Annual General Meeting be approved as presented.

4. Business arising from the Minutes
   President Courtney noted that the one or two items that could be so described would be covered in the agenda and so it was agreed to move to item:

14. The International Political Science Association
   - Secretary-General, Professor John Trent (Ottawa)

   Professor Trent thanked the meeting for the opportunity to speak at this point. He reminded those present that the 14th World Congress of the International Political Science Association would be held in Washington, D.C., August 28 through September 1. That Congress would also mark the end of the location of the Secretariat of IPSA in Canada, where it had been since the 1970’s - the first North American Congress having been held in Montreal in 1973. The Secretariat would now move on to Norway, under his successor as Secretary-General, Francesco Kjellberg of the University of Oslo.

   Professor Trent underlined the strong participation of Canadian political scientists in the affairs of IPSA during the period of which he had spoken and mentioned among many others such distinguished key participants as Jean Lapointe, John Meisel, André Vachet, Kål Holst. The INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL SCIENCE REVIEW, he noted with pride, had been founded with the second-named as Editor. Canadian scholars had made central contributions to the research committees, study groups, Programme committees ... over the years.

   Professor Trent noted that his term of office had seen membership grow from 400 to 1500, the Research Committees from 20 to 43 in number and the budget to over $250,000. IPSA was also very active in terms of its many publications other than the IPSR. He invited CFPS members to continue the high levels of participation and to, with him, keep a watchful eye for the future of The International Political Science Association.

   Professor Trent concluded by inviting those present to come to Washington where, this year, the annual meeting of the APSA flowed directly out of the IPSA meetings. It was, for 8 days, the “place to be” for political scientists and he looked forward to chairing his colleagues there.

   The warm applause of the assembly underlined Professor Courtney’s thanks to Professor Trent, both for the report of the moment but also for his long and outstanding service to the political science community through the IPSA.
5. Report: The President
   - Professor Courtney

Professor Courtney began his remarks by speaking of the deaths in this Association year of two colleagues, two very distinguished names in Canadian political Science:

Professor C.B. Macpherson (U of T)
Professor Khayyam Z. Paltiel (Carleton)

He noted their important contribution to the profession and their colleagues' profound sense of loss at their passing.

Professor Courtney referred the AGM to his Report as it was published in The Bulletin that was in the members' kits. He noted first an important development in Association affairs: the establishment of The CPSSA Trust Fund on which Executive and Board had worked this year. The hope was to lay a capital base to provide interest earnings to give an assured and adequate base for the programmes that are in place and for such initiatives as might - as resources opened up - be developed in the interest of the disciplinary community. The SSHRCC, Professor Courtney said, was in a process of gradual withdrawal of its support of journals and of associations with the inevitable result, over the next period, of an increase of burden/responsibility on the members and institutional members of associations.

The President went on to underline that the prospect was in the long-term, rather than in the short-run. At present the Association's financial sheets were relatively well-balanced. The Trust Fund, said Professor Courtney, was beyond the planning stage. The Trustees had been named:

   Professor Thomas Flanagan (Calgary), Chairman
   Professor Carolyn Tuohy (Toronto)
   Professor Réjean Landry (Laval)
   Professor Denis Stairs (Dalhousie)

An Advisory Board was largely in place and would meet for the first time in the course of the annual meeting. The Association President would sit, ex-officio, on that advisory body. The President was struck with the willing response of so many men and women for a deep commitment to the Association. The Trust Fund represented a novel idea for a learned society and there were, he said, a lot of people watching. Plans were being made for mechanisms to reach donors on many levels and to elicit donations in a variety of forms: annual donations, lump sum contributions, bequests and so on.

President Courtney next referred to the revived DIRECTORY project under his colleague, Professor David Smith (Saskatchewan). Only an unavoidable conflict had prevented Professor Smith's being here today.

As an introduction, Professor Courtney reminded the assembly that there had been a project in 1985 that had not been able, for the reason of lack of resources, to be taken beyond the draft stage. An unexpected supplementary grant from Council in 1987 had opened possibilities and Professor Smith had taken things from there. Professor Courtney reminded the assembly that the Association had been without this important tool since Professor William Hull had produced his directory in 1970-71.

The Smith DIRECTORY had appeared in draft form and copies of that draft were being forwarded to each department head. This would already represent an important tool, for the draft contained 661 names of political scientists according to the departments in which they worked. It also contained a second section where members who are graduate students, members of cognate departments, professional political scientists working outside of the universities, etc. were listed if they had responded to an every-such-member invitation to do so. One hundred such additional names were listed. Thus 781 names, addresses, telephone numbers, bitnet addresses (in some cases) were already available in the departments.

The second stage in this important project was about to be entered into and members could expect to hear directly from David Smith. In fact, questionnaires would be sent to all individual members (currently close to 1200 persons) and to every faculty member in the country, as well as to supplementary lists, from various sources, of persons for whom, it was hoped, DIRECTORY listing might be an incentive to membership. On Professor Smith's behalf, Professor Courtney urged response.

Professor Courtney spoke briefly about the view that the presidency had afforded him of the internships programmes. He said that his earlier impressions had been confirmed: they were active, healthy and a credit to the Association and he wished to note thanks to all of those involved.

Professor Courtney told the meeting that the 1988 Essex scholars were (in the place held for faculty) Jean Crête (Laval) and two graduate students, Hélène Gaboury (Montreal) and Helen Moroz (Queen's). The SSHBCC which had a history of special generosity to this programme, had been able to make an additional grant this year to permit the graduate student participants to extend their stay beyond the normal four weeks of the scholarship funding. He wished them all a profitable summer at Essex.

Professor Courtney noted the Dalhousie meeting of the heads of departments and the high usefulness of that programme that he, attending for the first time in his capacity of Association president, had observed both at the meeting and in terms of his colleagues' reactions to it. He thanked Professor Gil Winham, the Dalhousie Chairman and meeting host. One of the things that the seminar had organized was an active membership drive at the departments.

In conclusion, Professor Courtney thanked his colleagues on the Executive and Board, those who directed the various CPSA programmes whose reports were now before the AGM, and the staff. He expressed his personal thanks and special appreciation to Professor Marsha Chandler (U of T) who had taken on the key post of being Programme Chairman in his presidency.

6. Report: The President of The Nominating Committee
   - Professor Courtney

Professor Courtney reminded the meeting that the other members of the 1988 Nominating Committee were Professors Ian Gow (Montreal), Patrick Kyba (Guelph) and Mary Beth Montcalm (Manitoba). They had received the nominations from the membership and had then filled in the slate to conform with the concerns in the Constitution and the By-laws of the Board: regional, linguistic and gender representation; at least two candidates for each of the five member-at-large places. The ballot had presented a President-Elect by acclamation and the names of 10 excellent candidates for the other posts.

Professor Courtney read into the record the names of the successful candidates:

President-Elect: André-J. Bélanger (professeur, Montréal)

Members-at-large:
   Edmund A. Auenger (professeur, Alberta-St. Jean)
   Professor Maureen Covell (Simon Fraser University)
   Dr. Audrey Doerr (Government of Canada)
   Professor Elisabeth L. Gidengil (McGill)
   Guy Lachapelle (professeur, Concordia)

Professor Courtney thanked everyone who had participated in the process. He expressed himself as struck by and deeply appreciative of the great willingness of members of the community to let their names stand and to, in other ways, contribute to the life of the CPSA.

On a point of information Professor Courtney drew the attention of the meeting to two errors in the election process. The first had been a typographical one made in the listing on the ballot of one candidate's university affiliation. The second was an accident, not of the Association's making. In the printing process, by slippage, page 5, on which appeared the names and biographies of 4 candidates, was blank in a very few copies of the Election Bulletin.

Both Executive and Board had reviewed the situation carefully and could assure the meeting that these investigations had concluded that neither were the cases sufficiently numerous nor would the results have been materially different had the anomalies not occurred. Professor Courtney expressed the regret of all concerned for the unfortunate turn of events and carried apologies to all of the candidates.

Professor Courtney now invited election scrutineer and Association Past-President, Professor O.P. Dwivedi, to make his report. The latter confirmed the results as presented and noted that 222 ballots had been returned. This was a participation rate of only 22.15% and he expressed 'disheartenment' 'that political scientists do not participate fully in this democratic process'. 13 ballots... had to be declared invalid for reasons that ranged from from a failure to enter name and address on the return envelope to failure to enclose a ballot in the envelope. Regional participation was outlined as follows:

Professor Courtney thanked Professor Dwivedi most warmly for yet another service to the community.

7. Introduction of President, 1988-92:
   Professor David J. Elkins (UBC)

Professor Courtney now introduced, with great pleasure, his colleague, and incoming President, Professor David J. Elkins of The University of British Columbia. The symbol of office, the silver cup, was passed between them.

In calling on Professor Elkins to take over, Professor Courtney said that one of the great pleasures in working as closely as the Association Executive does is that you get to know people very well. Professor Elkins was now not only his long-recognized distinguished colleague, but also his very close friend. He knew that Professor Elkins would enjoy, as had Professor Courtney, the full support of members and staff.

President Elkins said that the traditional role of the President-Elect was to watch, observe and to learn. It had come as a pleasant surprise to him to see how much John Courtney made him work! What he could promise Professor Courtney as Past-President was that he planned to return the favour!

Professor Elkins noted that Professor Dwivedi, now at the end of his past-presidential term, would now leave the Board. All, he said, knew, from Professor Dwivedi's longstanding interest and service, that the Association could continue to call upon his wisdom. Professor Elkins, on behalf of the Association, thanked Professor Dwivedi and wished him well.

At this point in the proceedings and to the applause of the assembly, Professor André-J. Bélanger, the incoming President-Elect, was welcomed to the podium in his new role.

Professor Elkins, noting how appreciated was Professor Gaboury's performance as Secretary-Treasurer, now introduced item:

8. Report: The Secretary-Treasurer
   - Professor Jean-Pierre Gaboury (Ottawa)

Professor Gaboury referred the members to his annual report as it appeared at pages 4 through 7 of The Bulletin, XVII:3 (June 1988). He noted that the year had ended with a deficit of $1,164., to bring the accumulated deficit to ($1,164. + $11,167.) $12,331.

The story was was easily seen on page 6. Membership revenues were up, as were other revenues; grants were down. Association expenses were up $13,320. This was attributed to salary increments, increases in the level of fees to The Federation and to IPSA, and in the cost of producing The Bulletin. The decrease in JOURNAL expenses was not a saving to the general budget for it reflected the abolition of honoraria and secretarial support monies to all editorial posts except the Managing Editor's. Professor Gaboury noted that the balance sheets for the internship program were also included. He asked that any questions about them be reserved for Items 10 and 11.

MOTION CARRIED
Professor Donald C. Rowat / Professor J. Peter Meekison

That the Financial Report be received.

Professor Gaboury said that he now found himself in the unfortunate position of having to ask for an increase in membership fees. He reminded the assembly that this had happened at close intervals over recent years: 1980, 1982, 1985, 1987 and that the members could understand why: costs were inevitably increasing. The level of inflation in the period ran at above 4%. SSHRCC grants were decreasing. Ten years ago grants represented 50% of the total revenues; today they represented 35% and the Association's situation simply reflected another example of the painful process of privatization.

He described the Association as one of the most active in the country. It produced a first-rank journal, a rich Annual Programme, two internships programmes, two scholarship programmes, several other publications (newsletter, proceedings, updatings of thesis listings, others from time-to-time) and a variety of other programmes. The members "got a very good deal" in all of this, he said. The staff continued overworked and underpaid. And on another level he pointed out that the members' investment of $52,000 in individual fees had raised in 1987 over $500,000 in revenues for the interests of political science in Canada. This was a point, he said, that needed emphasis!

At Professor Gaboury's request, the following was put before the meeting:

MOTION
J. Peter Meekison / Edwin B. Black

A discussion surrounded the Motion. Professor McCorguodale asked about ongoing efforts to increase the membership base. Professor Courtney noted that there was an intensified effort at the departments to persuade those who resisted Association membership to rethink that position. There was a strong campaign to try to involve larger numbers of persons working outside of the universities as professional political scientists.

In fact, Professor Courtney continued, fees were only one reason for needing expanded support. Council funding now being based exclusively on numbers and not activity as used to be the case. Finally the point was made that the community had evidenced its elasticity in the matter of fees, increases not having to date affected numbers.

In response to a question from Professor Alan Rear (Winnipeg) about memberships in cognate departments, there was assurance of ongoing efforts to reach such people and an invitation to the members to bring forward to the Secretary-Treasurer, on an ongoing basis, names of such persons at their own institutions.

It was noted that increasing institutional subscription rates was more difficult and that was why the proposal was to have three levels.

1. Conclude the Secretary-Treasurer's report the following was put:

MOTION
Jean-Pierre Gaboury / J. Peter Meekison

That McCoy-Duff and Company be reappointed for 1988/89 as Association auditors.

- Professor Ronald Manzer (Toronto)

MOTION
J. Peter Meekison / Edwin B. Black

That the Report of the Journal Editors be received as presented.

Professor Manzer noted his deep appreciation to his colleagues on the Editorial Board: Professors Bashevkin, Coleman, the Sqsp editors and Professor McMenemy. He said that the "great tutor" of the Editorial Board was John McMenemy and that he continued the "core of THE JOURNAL" in terms of its production. His service was a great asset to the Association and highly valued. There ensued an interesting discussion of the details of the report, including book review policy, turnaround time, length of manuscripts, footnote and citation policy and so on.

   - Director, Professor Conrad Winn (Carleton)

   MOTION CARRIED

   Professor Caroline Andrew / Professor Peter Russell

   That the Report of the Director of the Parliamentary Internship Programme be received as presented.

A brief discussion took place. Thanks were expressed to Professor Magnus Gunther (Trent) who was stepping down as assistant director. It was noted that Professor Guy Lachapelle (Montréal) would now take on that role.

11. Report: The Ontario Legislature Internship Programme
   - Director, Professor Frederick J. Fletcher (York)

   MOTION CARRIED

   Professor William Hull / Professor Donald V. Smiley

   That the Report of the Director of the Ontario Legislature Internship Programme be received as presented.

It was noted that the term of Frederick J. Fletcher (York) would end at June 30th. He was, to the applause of the meeting, warmly thanked. The meeting was reminded that the succession at OLIP was well in hand. Professor Graham White, who had been assistant director, had been appointed to succeed Professor Fletcher.

   - Professor Alain G. Gagnon (Carleton)

   MOTION CARRIED

   Professor Carl Baar / Professor Carolyn Tuchy

   That the Report of the Editor of The Bulletin be received.

In the discussion around the Motion Professor Gagnon drew particular attention to the excellent collaboration he had received from the department heads, who formed the network of regional representatives. He invited continuing participation from individuals in other areas to keep the newsletter in good contact with the broad community. He noted his intention to maintain the current rhythm and format of the newsletter and thanked the members and the staff for continued support.

   Professor Marsha Chandler (Toronto)

Professor Elkins now called on his friend and colleague, Professor Marsha Chandler (Toronto) for a brief report on "her very successful" Programme. Professor Chandler began by reading into the record the names of the section heads who had "so splendidly, ably", assisted her and whom she now thanked publicly: Professors Ronald Beiner (U of T), Stephen Brooks (Windsor), John Cartwright (WLU), Terry Downey (Waterloo), Elisabeth Gidengil (McGill), Thomas Hootin (WLU), François Houle (Ottawa), Réjean Landry (Laval), Maureen Appel Molot (Carleton), Kim Richard Nossal (McMaster), Grace Skogstad (U of T), Charlotte Yates (McMaster) and Dr. Anthony Careless (Government of Ontario).

The Programme, Professor Chandler reported, had comprised 11 sections over 83 sessions. 130 papers had been presented; there were 14 roundtables and 2 plenaries. There had been joint sessions with 7 other associations. The Programme had (excluding Board and Committee participation) listed 330 individuals.

Professor Chandler put Motions of thanks to The University of Windsor and its President, to the Windsor Learned Societies organization under Professor Ronald Wagenberg and to the host Department of Political Science and its Chairman, Professor Richard Price. The meeting seconded the motion with its warm applause.

Professor Chandler moved special thanks to Professor W.C. (Jake) Soderlund, the CPSA’s Windsor local representative. She said that it would be impossible to exaggerate Professor Soderlund’s contribution.

She concluded her report with special thanks to Professor Courtney who had trusted her to perform a task that had been a great pleasure. She introduced her successor, Professor André Blais (Montréal).

Rising, Professor Blais thanked Professor Chandler for an outstanding effort and a remarkable PROGRAMME. He noted that next year the Association would be welcomed to Laval. He told the assembly of the special section already being planned to celebrate the bicentenary of the Declaration of Rights. He concluded by inviting proposals and suggestions and referred the membership to the list of sections and their organizers as it would appear in both June and September JOURNALS.

15. Other business

Professor Kear rose to underline the importance of a bilingual DIRECTORY. Professor Courtney assured him that it was in fact a joint CPSA-Supp project under Professor David Smith and invited any member with suggestions for Professor Smith to write directly to him.

16. Adjournment

MOTION CARRIED
Professor Carl Bear / Professor O.P. Dwivedi

That the 1988 Annual General Meeting be adjourned.

LE CONGRES ET LE MARCHE DE L'EMPLOI

L'association canadienne de science politique et le comité de programme du Congrès de juin 1989 à l'Université Laval aimerait offrir aux départements la possibilité de rencontrer sur place des candidats pour les postes encore ouverts dans leurs institutions respectives. Les départements intéressés devraient faire parvenir la description des offres d'emploi pour le 30 avril 1989 à Guy Lafleur, au Département de science politique de Laval. Les candidats qui seront présents au congrès devraient envoyer, à la même personne, et pour la même date, un C.V. abrégé contenant les renseignements essentiels à propos de leurs études, de leur expérience d'enseignement, de leurs publications et date de disponibilité. Les représentants des départements pourront consulter les dossiers, pour chacun des sous-champs de la discipline, lors de la première journée du Congrès (premier juin).

La direction du congrès mettra à la disposition des uns et des autres des locaux appropriés et un soutien administratif (horaires, etc...) pour la tenue de rencontres lors des deux dernières journées de l'événement annuel (deux et trois juin). C'est la première fois que l'Association ajoute une telle dimension à son congrès annuel. Elle souhaite que le tout se déroule à l'enseigne de la confidentialité et de la souplesse.

The Canadian Political Science Association and the organizing committee for the June 1989 annual meeting at Laval would like to enable departments to meet on the spot prospective candidates for teaching positions in their respective institutions. Interested departments should send the description of the job opportunities no later than April 30, 1989 to Guy Lafleur, at the Department of Political Science, Université Laval. Candidates who will attend the annual meeting should forward, to the same person and respecting the same deadline, an abbreviated C.V. including the essential information concerning their studies, teaching experience, publications and date of availability. Representatives from the departments will have the opportunity to consult the files, for each sub-field of the discipline, on the first day of the meeting (June 1st).

The organizers of the meeting will be responsible for providing appropriate offices or rooms and some administrative support (scheduling, etc...) for interviews that should take place during the last two days of the annual event (June 2nd and 3rd). It is the first time that the Association adds such a dimension to its annual meeting. Its objectives are that the whole process should be surrounded by confidentiality and smoothness.
BIENVENUE À QUÉBEC

DÉPARTEMENT DE SCIENCE POLITIQUE DE L'UNIVERSITÉ LAVAL

Les Sociétés savantes se réunissant à l'Université Laval, le Département de science politique de cette université accueille les collègues politologues du Canada et du Québec les 1er, 2 et 3 juin 1989. Ce département a améné à considérer comme important dans le réseau de la science politique canadienne mérite peut-être d'être connu plus précisément. La présentation de quelques activités récentes et d'autres en voie de réalisation démontre, en plus de faire ressortir le dynamisme de cette unité, que la réputation trouve appui bien au-delà de la tradition.

En réalité, le Département de science politique de l'Université Laval se retrouve en pleines phases d'actualisation de réformes importantes de programmes et de recrutement intense, tout en assurant la consolidation des éléments qui ont constitué ses points de force dans le passé. De plus, la préoccupation d'accentuer et d'approfondir les collaborations avec des universitaires d'autres pays et d'autres institutions s'est trahie par la présence de très nombreux professeurs et professeures invités qui ont dispensé ou dispensent très bientôt des enseignements aux étudiants et étudiantes inscrites à Laval. D'autres formes de collaborations se retracent aussi dans les activités de recherche et de publications auxquelles se trouvent associés plusieurs membres du Département.

LE PERSONNEL ENSEIGNANT

Ayant pris sa retraite le 31 décembre 1988, monsieur Léon DION a été nommé PROFESSEUR EMERITE. Il continuera pratiquement à offrir, à diverses reprises, son cours "Évolution socio-politique du Québec", tout en poursuivant la préparation des deuxième et troisième parties de son ouvrage synthétique sur le Québec.

Par ailleurs, depuis l'été 1988, le Département compte deux nouveaux membres: les professeurs Robert M. CUTLER et Guy LAFOREST. Spécialiste de la politique soviétique, monsieur Cutler a obtenu son Ph. D. à The University of Michigan et il enseignait à The University of California (Santa Barbara). Spécialiste de la pensée politique canadienne et québécoise, monsieur Laforest détient un Ph. D. de McGill University et a enseigné à The University of Calgary.

Finalement, d'ici juin 1990, le Département s'engagera dans le recrutement de six nouvelles ou nouvelle collègues. Dès lors, le Département de science politique de l'Université Laval comptera, en plus de la participation assurée du professeur Dion, 31 professeurs et professeures réguliers. Voici la liste des professeurs et professeuses présentement actifs au Département:

PROFESSEURS INVITÉS

Préoccupé d’assurer à ses étudiantes et étudiants des contacts diversifiés et stimulants pour la recherche et l’enseignement, le Département de science politique de l’Université Laval a accentué au cours des récentes années sa pratique d’inviter des collègues d’autres universités à offrir, pour un ou deux trimestres, un ou des enseignements dans ses programmes réguliers des trois cycles. Ainsi, au cours des quatre dernières années, et jusqu’à l’été 1989, plus de 25 universitaires d’un peu partout dans le monde ont séjourné au Département au titre de professeur invité. La liste qui suit donne un aperçu très sommaire, par trimestre, de cette dimension des activités départementales.

PUBLICATIONS

En plus de la publication régulière d’articles dans diverses revues (Revue canadienne de science politique, Revue d’études canadiennes, Études internationales, Recherches sociologiques, etc.) et de nombreuses contributions à divers ouvrages collectifs, les membres du Département de science politique de l’Université Laval assurent une présence continue dans le monde de l’édition. Voici une liste d’ouvrages récemment publiés et d’autres dont la parution est prévue pour les mois à venir. De plus, d’ici environ un an, il est prévu qu’une dizaine d’autres livres pourront s’ajouter à la liste des publications récentes par des membres du Département.
A - Publications récentes:
- LEGAULT, Albert (sous la dir.), L'espace extra-atmosphérique et le Canada (numéro spécial de la revue Études internationales), vol. XII, no 3, septembre 1988.

B - Parutions très prochaines:
- LEMIEUX, Vincent, La structure du pouvoir dans les provinces politiques, Québec, Les Presses de l’Université Laval, (parution prochaine).
- PAINCHAUD, Paul (sous la dir.), Les politiques étrangères canadiennes depuis 1945, Québec, Les Presses de l’Université Laval, 2 volumes, (sous presse).

RECHERCHES SUBVENTIONNÉES

Il est clair que l’activité de recherche n’est pas measurable en seuls termes de recherches subventionnées par des organismes comme le Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines du Canada (CRSHC), le Fonds pour la formation des chercheurs et l’aide à la recherche (FCAR), l’institut canadien pour la paix et la sécurité internationales (ICPSI), l’Agence canadienne pour le développement international (ACDI), le Conseil des sciences et de la technologie du Québec (CSTQ), le Conseil québécois de recherches sociales (CQRS), etc. Cependant, les montants ainsi obtenus peuvent significativement contribuer à appuyer des candidats et candidatures aux grades de maîtrise et de doctorat. Il se révèle alors pertinent de présenter une énumération partielle des projets de recherche subventionnés par des organismes extérieurs au cours des deux dernières années, tout en soulignant que de nombreuses autres sources internes à l’université sont aussi accessibles et qu’une multiplicité d’autres activités ont reçu un soutien financier important (participation à des conférences internationales, programmes de coopération internationale, organisation de colloques, etc.).

ETUDES DE TROISIEME CYCLE

Le programme de doctorat (Ph.D.) en science politique comprend un ensemble de cours et d’examen et un travail de recherche. La scolarité s’appuie sur un séminaire obligatoire où les grands instruments théoriques sont exposés et discutés en rapport avec les intérêts de recherche des étudiantes et étudiants. Les autres cours sont suivis à l’intérieur de la banque de cours de niveau gradé du département et d’autres programmes. Un encadrement individualisé est en partie possible par le moyen des cours de lectures.

Dès leur demande d’admission, les candidats et candidates doivent identifier leur champ d’intérêt de recherche et présenter un bref projet de recherche. Les admissions tiennent compte des possibilités d’encadrement du département de même que de la qualité des dossiers de candidatures. Aux personnes qui présentent un dossier d’excellente qualité, l’Université Laval peut offrir une bourse d’étude ou un poste d’assistant de recherche ou d’enseignement.

Les champs d’étude à l’intérieur desquels s’inscrivent les thèses des sujets au nombre de cinq:

1) administration publique et analyse des politiques;
2) économie politique;
3) philosophie politique;
4) relations internationales et politique comparée;
5) sociologie politique.
Il est de plus en plus envisagé que le programme de doctorat puisse être completé en quatre ans d'études à plein temps, en suivant sans interruption les étapes qui conduisent à la soutenance finale de la thèse. À partir du moment de l'admission, les étapes suivantes sont à franchir:

a) scolarité (réseaux et cours obligatoires et au choix);
b) examens de synthèse;
c) travail de recherche;
d) présentation de la thèse en pré-lecture;
e) dépôt de la thèse pour évaluation;
f) soutenance;

Le programme est intégré à accueillir des candidats et candidats dont les aptitudes à la recherche sont apparentes, que leur diplôme de 2e cycle soit de science politique ou d'un autre domaine connexe.

UN NOUVEAU PROGRAMME DE PREMIER CYCLE

Dès l’automne 1989, de nouveaux programmes de 1er cycle entreront en vigueur au Département de science politique. Ce court texte identifie l’impact réel de cette réforme et précise les préoccupations qui en sont à l’origine.

La mise en application de la réforme proposée se traduit par des modifications telles que le parcours académique que devront emprunter les futurs étudiants du Département de science politique se révèlera sensiblement différent. A titre d’exemple, les étudiants du baccalauréat spécialisé devront suivre 36 crédits de cours obligatoires au lieu des 27 actuels, un minimum de 9 crédits à option limité dans trois blocs de cours de méthodologie, ce qui n’existe pas actuellement, 33 crédits de cours à option au lieu des 45 actuels et toujours 12 crédits au choix. Ces mêmes étudiants vont vivre une première année d’étude au Département assez différente. Ainsi, chacun des deux trimestres sera composé d’un bloc de 5 cours articulés étroitement entre eux qui viseront respectivement à initier au fait politique (premier trimestre) et à la discipline elle-même (deuxième trimestre). Concrètement cela signifie que les étudiants suivront au 1er trimestre les cours, "Introduction à l’étude de la politique contemporaine", "Introduction à l’histoire des idées politiques", "Politique et sociétés au Canada et au Québec", "Politique et sociétés dans le monde", cependant que le 2e trimestre de la 1ère année comprendra les cours, "Introduction à la science politique", "Principes de relations internationales", "Principes d’administration publique", et "Forces politiques". A cela, s’ajoute à chaque trimestre un cours de moniteur de 3 crédits, intitulé "Travail dirigé en science politique".

De même, ces étudiants devront, au cours de leur troisième année, suivre leurs deux derniers cours obligatoires. A savoir un séminaire de science politique et un cours de synthèse en science politique. Dans ce dernier cas, un examen écrit et oral viendra sanctionner la réussite de ce cours. Dernière modification, la discipline sera plus subdivisée en grandes concentrations, mais plutôt en 4 sous-champs qui seront les suivants: administration publique et analyse des politiques, relations internationales et politiques comparées, philosophie politique et sociologie politique.

Reste maintenant à répondre à la question qui se pose inévitablement, celle de savoir pourquoi avoir entrepris pareille réforme et quelles sont les préoccupations qui en sont à l’origine?

Le Comité des programmes a été, tout au long de ses travaux, animé par un double niveau de préoccupations. D’une part, par ce qu’il aurait pu appeler les préoccupations et problèmes propres à notre département même, et qui concernaient la faible structure de nos programmes actuels en deuxième ou en troisième année, le caractère monodisciplinaire et spécialisé de la formation accordée aux étudiants ou bien encore la formation méthodologique de nos étudiants qui nous semblait devoir être encore renforcée.

A cela se greffe un deuxième niveau de préoccupations, plus globales, et que pourrait synthétiser la formule suivante: qu’est-ce que former un politologue en 1989 et qu’est-ce que cela voudra dire au cours des années 1990 ? A cela nous avons répondu, et c’est là la ligne directrice de la réforme proposée, que s’il fallait toujours lui donner une solide formation en science politique même, articulée à une excellente formation générale et méthodologique, il fallait le faire en lui faire acquérir un bagage de connaissances en science politique particulièrement relevé, à développer les attentes et les habiletés qui vont le rendre capable de comprendre les phénomènes politiques, d’en réaliser une analyse structurée et de communiquer les résultats de ses travaux de façon convaincante.

Une telle réponse prend sa véritable signification lorsqu’on l’inscrit dans les grands débats actuels qui portent sur la réorientation des études de premier cycle universitaire en général et de sciences sociales plus particulièrement et dont rendaient compte, à l’automne 1988, l’étude sectorielle sur les sciences sociales au Québec (Rapport Mabou) et le colloque de la Fédération canadienne des sciences sociales dont le thème était: "Qui a peur de la formation générale ?" Dans ce contexte, il ne semble pas déplacé de vous proposer de lire les nouveaux programmes de premier cycle qui entreront en application au Département de science politique à l’automne 1989 comme étant une réponse pertinente et adéquate à ces grands débats et aux problèmes spécifiques de nos programmes; une réponse qui, comparée à ce qui se fait dans les autres départements de science politique au Québec, nous place, ni en avance ni en retard d’une réforme, mais emprunts-la, à l’heure juste.
In this last column for the academic year, we have chosen to provide you with an abridged version of the SSFC report prepared for the national lobby week held in Ottawa April 10-15, 1989. This text is extracted from the document entitled Coherent Educational and Scientific Research Policies for Canada produced by the National Consortium of Scientific and Educational Societies. Please feel free to use it in your community when meeting with your elected representatives.

In an increasingly technologically oriented society, the social sciences and humanities are essential components of a viable national science and technology policy. Technological innovation will be profitable to our country only insofar as our society is able or willing to adapt to change. It is in this respect that social scientists and humanists have an important role to play. Research in the social sciences provides the knowledge to analyze and understand the conditions under which Canadians will accept, and cope with new technologies in their lives. Market needs, consumption patterns, training of the labour force, ethics, changes in lifestyles, performance of firms and of workers are only a few of the issues which must be seriously dealt with by Canadian social scientists and humanists if we are to become internationally competitive. Culture, values and human resources development depend partly upon the research and development investments made by government. Funding must be increased in such fields as business management, ethics, industrial psychology, environmental psychology, economics, education, etc., to keep pace with technological innovations.

"Technological innovation and social change must be seen as an integrated process and should be managed as such. The diffusion and management of innovation must be an integral part of any technology policy. Policies and development, to give prominence to the labour market, the education system, enterprises and the various other social aspects..." (New Technologies in the 1990s: A Socio-Economic Strategy, (OECD)

Support for the training of competent social scientists and for funding of innovative research enterprises linked to new technologies and to other areas of national importance must come from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) as it is the only national body committed to peer review adjudication of research and communication in the social sciences and humanities.

In late 1987, the National Advisory Board on Science and Technology (NABST) recommended a considerable increase in the research councils' base budgets and relative decline since 1970. The proposed increase would allow the research councils "to pursue more vigorous and venturesome research to bring Canada to comparative international levels".

The base budget of the SSHRC has not increased in constant dollars since 1970, the year council was established. When we compare this situation to twenty years ago, we realize that funding is substantially lower in constant dollars than it was in 1968. Moreover, with respect to the federal government's share of the GERD, the percentage devoted to social sciences and humanities research has dropped from 6.7% (1978) to 5.5% (1987). Although the Matching Grants Policy has generated a modest increase to Council funds, the supplementary funds are barely means a substitute for a real increase in the base budget.

Of particular concern is the precipitous decline in the Council's budget in 1991/92 and an early decision must be made to include the matching funds in the base budget. The uncertainty of the funding situation after 1990/91 makes it extremely difficult to plan and to effectively fill its mandate.

A substantial increase in the SSHRC base budget is needed for Council to continue to support innovative research of national importance to Canada. Furthermore, the base budget of SSHRC should be increased by $15 million in 1989/90 and doubled by 1992/93 as recommended by the Lortie Committee. This major increase is required (1):

1) increase the number and value of doctoral and postdoctoral fellowships to ensure that there are sufficient highly-qualified researchers to satisfy the demand both within and outside the academic community.

It is estimated that one third of existing faculty will reach retirement age by the year 2000 and one half by the year 2005; at a time when a student enrolment is expected to increase. It is imperative therefore that resources be provided to ensure that qualified Canadians are available to replace retiring faculty, so that we are not obliged to rely on foreign recruitment to fill university positions when they become available.

Highly-qualified personnel in the social sciences and humanities are also in demand as we move from a resource-based to a knowledge-based society. Managers able to deal with rapid change, to communicate clearly and possessing leadership and administrative skills are the key to improved productivity and national competitiveness. The Japanese spare no effort to produce such people and a survey of the Corporate Higher Education Forum has confirmed their value to Canadian industry. To ensure that educated personnel are available tomorrow, a vibrant human sciences community in Canadian universities is needed today.

2) Increase research support in the broad range of disciplines in the social sciences and humanities that address vital issues related to Canadian cultural identity, socio-economic development and the quality of life in an increasingly competitive, global environment. International competitiveness requires knowledge of the cultures, languages, traditions, economic capacity and management techniques of Canada’s trading partners. Without such knowledge, we will be unable to maintain our prosperity in an ever more competitive world economy.

3) Enhance the dissemination of research undertaken in Canada by increasing support for traditional means of research communication (research journals, scholarly manuscripts, and conferences), and encouraging the development of journals that reach a broader audience than the academic community and in so doing, develop linkages between the producers and users of academic research. Particular emphasis would be placed on the development of those journals that report on research related to policy making and socio-economic development.

4) Fund new strategic initiatives that address pressing national issues such as the management of innovation, global change, and sustainable development, and applied ethics. Decisions about technological development and its impact must be informed by research grounded in our society and which reflects its culture, economy and political systems. This research cannot be bought abroad: it must be undertaken at home. In encouraging research on national issues, the Council intends adopting a more proactive, entrepreneurial role, to encourage greater linkages between the producers of research and users in the public and private sectors. A new program of Joint Ventures with the public and private sectors, to promote the development of multi-sectoral and multidisciplinary research on national issues, has recently been approved on an exploratory basis and additional funding will be required to enable the Council to mobilize researchers in its disciplines to address these challenging national issues.

CHRONIQUE DE LA FEDERATION CANADIENNE DES SCIENCES SOCIALES

Steen B. Eshensen, Ed.D.
Directeur général
Le 25 avril 1989

En guise de chronique en cette fin d’année universitaire, nous avons cru bon de vous présenter une version abrégée du texte que nous avons rédigé dans le cadre de la semaine nationale de lobbying qui s’est tenue à Ottawa du 10 au 15 avril 1989. Le texte est tiré du document intitulé Pour une politique canadienne cohérente en éducation et en recherche scientifique préparé par le Consortium national des sociétés scientifiques et pédagogiques. N’hésitez pas à l’utiliser lorsque vous rencontrerez les députés et les décideurs.

Dans une société orientée de plus en plus vers la technologie, la recherche dans le domaine des sciences humaines doit être une composante essentielle de la politique nationale en matière de sciences et de technologie. Les innovations technologiques seront plus profitables au pays dans la mesure où notre société aura la capacité ou la volonté de s’adapter à ces changements. C’est en ce sens que les chercheurs dans les sciences humaines ont un rôle important à jouer. En effet, ils possèdent les instruments et les connaissances nécessaires pour analyser et comprendre les conditions dans lesquelles les Canadiens pourront accepter les nouvelles technologies et s’y adapter. Les besoins du marché, les tendances au niveau de la consommation, la formation de la main-d’œuvre, les questions d’éthique, les changements dans le mode de vie, le rendement des entreprises et des travailleurs ne sont que quelques-unes des questions qui devront être sérieusement étudiées par la communauté canadienne des sciences humaines si nous voulons devenir compétitifs sur la scène internationale. L’augmentation du financement doit se faire de manière à encourager la recherche dans des domaines tels que l’administration des affaires, l’éthique, la psychologie industrielle, l’environnement, l’économie, l’éducation, etc.

Selon un rapport récent préparé par l’OCDE:

"l’innovation technologique et le changement social doivent être perçus comme processus d’intégration et devraient être traités comme tel. La diffusion et la gestion de l’innovation doivent faire partie intégrante de toute politique en matière de technologie. Les politiques et les changements technologiques doivent inclure d’autres éléments que la recherche et le développement afin d’accorder la priorité au marché ou au système d’éducation, aux entreprises ainsi qu’à plusieurs autres questions sociales..." (New Technologies in the L'appui à la formation de personnes compétentes dans le domaine des sciences humaines, ainsi que le financement de recherches innovatrices qui sont reliées aux nouvelles technologies et à d'autres questions d'importance nationale, doivent provenir du Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines. Vers la fin de 1987, le Conseil consultatif national sur la science et la technologie recommandait une augmentation considérable des budgets de base des Conseils de recherches. Le CCNST signalait particulièrement le décrochage constant du Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines depuis 1976. Les augmentations proposées permettraient aux trois Conseils "d'appuyer la recherche avec plus de vigueur et d'audace, de manière à renforcer la position du Canada sur la scène internationale."

Le budget de base du CRSH n'a bénéficié d'aucune augmentation en dollars constants depuis 1978, année où le Conseil a été établi. Lorsque nous comparons cette situation à celle d'il y a 20 ans, nous observons que le financement est sensiblement inférieur en dollars constants qu'il ne l'était en 1968. Qui plus est, en regard de la part du gouvernement fédéral au DIRD, il est à noter que le pourcentage réservé à la recherche dans le domaine des sciences humaines a chuté de 6,7% (1978) à 5,5% (1987). Quoique la politique de contrepartie ait généré une augmentation du budget, les fonds suplementaires ne peuvent aucunement remplacer une augmentation réelle du budget de base.

En outre, le budget de base du CRSH devrait être augmenté de 15 millions $ en 1989-1990 et doublé d'ici 1992-1993, tel que recommandé par le CCNST. Cette augmentation majeure est nécessaire pour les fins suivantes:

1) Augmenter le nombre et la valeur des bourses doctorales et postdoctorales de manière à assurer un nombre suffisant de chercheurs hautement qualifiés pour satisfaire à la demande à l'intérieur et à l'extérieur de la communauté universitaire.

2) Augmenter l'appui à la recherche, dans l'éventail existant de disciplines en sciences humaines qui s'intéressent à des questions vitales relatives à l'identité culturelle canadienne, au développement socio-économique et à la qualité de la vie dans un environnement global de plus en plus compétitif. En ce sens, la compétitivité internationale exige la connaissance de la culture de la langue, des traditions, de même que des capacités économiques et des techniques de gestion de nos partenaires commerciaux.

3) Améliorer la diffusion de la recherche entreprise au Canada, en appuyant les formes traditionnelles de diffusion (comme les revues spécialisées, les ouvrages savants et les conférences); encourager le développement de revues de vulgarisation et ainsi mettre en rapport les producteurs et les utilisateurs de la recherche. Il faudrait également accorder une importance particulière au développement des revues spécialisées qui font état de la recherche portant sur la formulation des politiques et sur le développement économique.

4) Financer de nouvelles initiatives stratégiques concernant des questions nationales, urgentes, comme la gestion de l'innovation, le changement global et le développement durables ainsi que les questions d'ethique appliquée. Les décisions relatives au développement technologique et son impact doivent être fondées sur la recherche reflétant notre société, sa culture, son économie et son système politique. Les résultats de ces recherches ne peuvent provenir d'ailleurs; la recherche doit se faire chez-nous. En encourageant la recherche portant sur des questions nationales, le Conseil entend adopter une approche plus active et jouer un rôle d'entrepreneur, de manière à prendre les mesures qui s'imposent afin d'assurer que des Canadiens compétents soient disponibles pour remplacer ceux qui auront atteint l'âge de la retraite, de façon à ce que nous ne soyons pas obligés de recruter à l'étranger.

Un personnel hautement qualifié dans le domaine des sciences humaines s'avère également nécessaire, à mesure que nous progressons vers une société infoculturelle. Des administrateurs capables de faire face aux changements rapides, de communiquer avec clarté et possédant des aptitudes en gestion et en leadership, seront la clef d'une productivité accrue et d'une compétitivité nationale. Les Japonais ne mènagent aucun effort pour former de tels cadres et un sondage du Corporate Higher Education Forum a confirmé la valeur de ces cadres pour l'industrie canadienne. Pour assurer demain la disponibilité d'un personnel compétent, nous avons besoin dès aujourd'hui d'une communauté en sciences humaines dynamique dans nos universités canadiennes. encourager une plus grande coopération entre les producteurs de la recherche et les utilisateurs. Un nouveau programme d'initiatives conjointes avec les secteurs publics et privés, visant à promouvoir le développement de la recherche multisectorielle et multidisciplinaire sur des questions nationales, a récemment été approuvé sur une base exploratoire. Un financement additionnel sera requis afin de permettre au Conseil de mobiliser les chercheurs dans les diverses disciplines pour qu'ils se penchent sur ces questions d'importance nationale.

University of New Brunswick

The Division of Social Science on the Saint John Campus invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the Assistant Professor Level to commence 1 July 1989. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. or expect to receive it shortly, and will be expected to teach courses at both the junior and senior levels in a 4-year undergraduate Political Science program. At the junior level, the candidate will teach (an) introductory course(s) in Political Science; at the senior level, the candidate will teach in the area of his/her specialization. Participation in research is also anticipated. The position is in Canadian Government and Politics with a preference for some combination in Public Administration/Policy, Intergovernmental Relations and/or Canadian Federalism, and a secondary specialization in Political Theory and Research Methodology. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience. In accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, preference will be given to a Canadian citizen or permanent resident. While this is an English language position, bilingualism (French and English) is an asset. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Letters of application should be sent to Dr. Peter McGahan, Dean of Faculty, University of New Brunswick, P.O. Box 5050, Saint John, N.B. E2L 4J5.
